THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

25X1 1. Engineer troops from Kromeriz (P50/P92) were observed at the beginning of [] bivouacking in a tent camp on the bank of the Danube river in the forest Zabos-Osiste (coordinates unk.) near Petržalka (P49/X99).

2. These troops conducted river exercises in conjunction with engineer troops stationed in the Klynske Nivy barracks in Bratislava. The exercises consisted of navigating gunboats and building pontoon bridges across the river. One bridge was assembled and subsequently dismantled during the day and another bridge during the night with the use of searchlights. Complete bridges were tested by tanks; three tanks were seen crossing the bridge at a time.

Comment. A south-eastern Bratislava suburb is called Mlynske Nivy; a street of the same name is in this suburb. No barracks have been reported previously in this suburb.
